S’PORE SMART CANE IN TOP THREE OF GLOBAL AWARD

A SMART walking cane invented in Singapore that can help the blind find friends nearby using technologies like Foursquare yesterday emerged as one of two runner-ups in the global James Dyson Award.

Called Blindspot and designed by National University of Singapore graduate Selene Chew, 23, the cane was selected from over 550 entries from 18 countries, such as the United States and Germany.